Ohio is beginning to feel lonesome. The Presidency doesn't satisfy her. She wanted a cabinet position.

General Hancock demeaned himself so admirably at Garfield's inauguration that the Democrats have concluded to renominate him in 1884.

It is very safe to say at this writing what man in Wisconsin will be hit by senatorial lightning. It strikes pretty close to Cameron, but not close enough to break the dead lock.

The oldest locomotive engineer in the United States is George Lay, who now lives at Howard, Indiana. He is 76 years old, and in 1832 ran the first locomotive over the Baltimore and Ohio road.

The Cincinnati Enquirer: "President Garfield kissed his wife and mother yesterday after he became the boss of 50 million freemen. It was a very graceful performance, but Mr. Garfield used to do that at Mentor."

Judge Cassiday, of the Supreme Court, of this State, and John I. Mitchell, who was recently elected United States Senator from Pennsylvania, are warm personal friends, and made speeches together in Pennsylvania in 1876.

The New Testament revised, will not be published till about the middle of May. It does not make the way to heaven any easier than the old edition, so that score the public need not be in any particular haste about its publication.

The members of the Legislature who voted pretty regularly for Congressman Williams for Senator, were Barnes, of Delavan, Quarles, of Kenosha, and Sage, of Racine. We learn that Assemblyman Pratt, of this county, divided his vote between Mr. Williams and Mr. Keyes.

The most magnificent reception ever given to a man at El Paso, Illinois, was to a horse-thief, who was brought in town on the cars last Monday. Two thousand people were at the depot to meet him, but there was some disappointment in a hanging matinee not taking place.

It is said that of the $10,000 reward offered by the government in 1865, for the capture of Jeff Davis, $2,938 remains unclaimed. It is said that no less than 50,000 soldiers have claimed to have assisted in the capture of Davis, but all but a few hundred have been unable to substantiate their claims.

Since the Lord robbery in New York in 1867, there has hardly been anything more cheeky in this country than the robbery of a store in Baltimore one day last week. The thief, with marvelous coolness and assurance, entered the store, elbowed his way through a crowd of shop girls, went directly to the cashier's desk, picked up $1,000, quietly walked out, and made his escape.

The senatorial contest at Madison is becoming more interesting as it approaches the end. On the forty-sixth ballot Mr. Cameron received 43 votes, within eight of a sufficient number to nominate him. Our correspondent telegraphs that Cameron will undoubtedly be nominated this evening, to which time the caucus adjourned, as the opposition can not unite on any candidate.

Miss Frances E. Willard, formerly of this city, but now of Evanston, yesterday presented to President Garfield, on behalf of the Ladies' Temperance Union of the United States, the memorial oil painting of Mrs. Hayes, as a recognition of her advocacy of the temperance cause. Miss Willard made a neat speech to the President in presenting the painting, and in return the President made some characteristic remarks, and spoke in the highest terms of Mrs. Hayes.

Mr. Edward Langtry, of London, husband of the prettiest woman in all England, is in Chicago. This man has become famous on both sides of the Atlantic, simply because his wife is the acknowledged beauty of the United Kingdom. Wherever the English language is spoken, there the name of Mrs. Langtry is mentioned in connection with female beauty; and in all the fashion publications of Europe and America, her portraits have appeared, some in an artistic manner and others in an indifferent way. Mr. Langtry appears to wear the honor of being the husband of the prettiest woman on either continent, with becoming grace and modesty.

Thirty-five years ago a man named Setz was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for murder, the term being for life, and most of the time in solitary confinement. A dispatch says that Governor Foster has granted Setz a pardon. He is now 56 years old. It is said that when he was taken to the penitentiary he had a wife and child in Cincinnati, but that they died years ago. All his relatives are dead, and at the age of 56 he leaves the prison walls without a friend or an acquaintance outside the penitentiary. He had never seen a railroad till last week, and when he was sentenced could not speak English, but can do so now. Only three of the jurymen who convicted him are now living, and they signed a recommendation for his pardon.

There has been much talk in Washington in regard to the necessity of an extra session of Congress, and President Garfield has been approached on the subject, but has not yet given an opinion. It is urged that the refunding should be provided for. It will cost $1,000,000 a month to pay the extra interest, and it will be fully a year before any bill can be put in operation if the matter rests until the next Congress. Then there are the Southern methods of carrying elections that are thought to be a good subject for investigation before the next appointment is made. What will be done it is of course impossible to say yet, as President Garfield has not decided. It seems, however, that the weight of opinion yet among members who remain at Washington, is that there will be no extra session.

A Washington dispatch in regard to the prospects of the Republicans to obtain control of the Senate, says: "Great interest is felt here in the result of filling the Republican vacancies in the Senate, and it is believed that if no delays occur in the election of the new Senators, the Republicans will control that body. The Democrats claim to have some hope of securing Mahone, but the Republicans claim that he will vote with them in the organization. It is also regarded as important that the vacancies be filled as soon as possible. The situation in Maine is understood to be favorable to Mr. Frye, and it is expected that there will be no Republican opposition to him. The contest in Wisconsin is watched with interest on account of its triangular nature. The names most frequently spoken for Iowa are Henderson, of Davenport; Chapman, of Council Bluffs, and Wilson. It is supposed Governor Gear, being a candidate against Wilson for the long term, would prefer to appoint one of the first two named rather than Wilson, so that they can enter the contest on more equal terms.

The members of President Garfield's cabinet are comparatively young men, except Mr. Kirkwood and Judge Hunt, and yet they are in the prime of vigorous manhood. The following are the ages of all the members of the cabinet:

Blaine, Secretary of State, 51.
Windom, Secretary of Treasury, 51.
Lincoln, Secretary of War, 37.
Hunt, Secretary of Navy, 60.
James, Postmaster General, 49.
Kirkwood, Secretary of Interior, 62.
McVey, Attorney General, 47.

The ages of the original members of President Hayes' cabinet when appointed, were as follows:

Evarts, Secretary of State, 59.
Sherman, Secretary of Treasury, 54.
McCreary, Secretary of War, 42.
Thompson, Secretary of Navy, 63.
McKey, Postmaster General, 53.
Schurz, Secretary of Interior, 45.
Devens, Attorney General, 51.

The original cabinet of President Grant averaged much younger than the cabinets of either Garfield or Hayes. He was the youngest man who ever occupied the Presidential chair, being only 47 at the time of his inauguration. The following were the ages of the cabinet when appointed in 1869:

Fish, Secretary of State, 61.
Boutwell, Secretary of Treasury, 51.
Belknap, Secretary of War, 38.
Robeson, Secretary of Navy, 42.
Creswell, Postmaster General, 41.
Fox, Secretary of Interior, 41.
Hoar, Attorney General, 33.

The eastern men, especially the solid moneyed men of New York, were surprised that Windom should be given the Secretaryship of the Treasury, and no sooner had the appointment been made than they opened an attack on his financial record. It is a fact, notwithstanding the opposition to Mr. Windom, that he was the first choice of Secretary Sherman for the treasuryship. President Garfield has known Mr. Windom for years. He thoroughly understands his financial record and has as correct a measurement of his ability to manage the finances of the country or any man can have. President Garfield has been eminently sound on all principles of finance ever since he entered Congress eighteen years ago. He has never wavered under the most trying circumstances, but has stood as firm as the rock of ages for honest money. Bearing in mind these things, it was a surprise to many business men that he should have given Mr. Windom the treasury portfolio. But the President evidently knew what he was doing in the appointment of Mr. Windom and was not departing from the safe and conservative policy which he has advocated during all his public career. Mr. Windom is a bi-metalist, and when the silver bill was passed in February, 1878, he occupied pretty much the same grounds as Secretary Sherman. In 1874 he voted for the Senate currency bill which was to limit the currency to 400 millions, and with many other Republican senators voted to pass the bill over the veto of President Grant. He believed in the remonetization of silver, and voted for the Bland silver bill because it was the best thing that could be done. He advocated a heavier silver dollar—one that would be equal to a dollar in gold, but when he saw that it was a 412½ grain dollar or no silver dollar at all, he voted for the bill. The leaders of powerful monopolies do not take to Mr. Windom very kindly, and much of the opposition to him comes from this direction. President Garfield thinks he is a safe man, and urged him to take the treasury department. We believe the business men of the country will become satisfied that the President has not made a mistake.

SENATORIAL CONTEST.

Special to the Gazette.
MADISON, March 9.—Two ballots were taken for United States Senator at the caucus this morning. There were present one hundred members. The following is the result of the forty-sixth ballot:

Cameron	43
Keyes	15
Dixon	10
Hazleton	10
Williams	10
Bowman	3
Quarles	3
Total	100

Cameron had forty-one votes on the forty-fifth ballot gaining two. The opposition is getting frightened. A motion was made to adjourn until eight o'clock this evening, which was carried by fifty-six to forty-four.

Unless the opposition can combine on a candidate, which there seems to be no prospect of doing, the Cameron crowd will undoubtedly nominate their man to-night.

JOINT CONVENTION.
Both houses met in joint convention to-day and proceeded to ballot for United States Senator. The result was as follows:

Cameron	41
Keyes	15
Dixon	10
Williams	10
Hazleton	7
Vilse	3
Scattering	3
Total	123

The general opinion prevails that a candidate will be named at the caucus to-night. Those supporting Cameron express the utmost confidence that their man will be nominee.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A gentleman who called upon President Garfield to-day says that his face unmistakably shows the effects of the days of weariness and anxiety through which he has passed. He has lost in weight, and looks very weary, or, as the gentleman put it, completely tired out. The cares and anxieties of the exalted position set much less lightly upon him than upon Mr. Hayes, who kept up his weight and spirits through all the trying ordeal. It is said by those who know them that Hayes could dismiss the cares of office and go to sleep, but that Garfield takes the anxiety of the day to bed with him, and hence loses much needed sleep. It is regarded, however, that the most trying days of his experience are passed, and that hereafter he can take it easier.

HAYES AT HOME.

He Speaks Concerning the Funding Bill and Garfield's Cabinet.

CLEVELAND, March 8.—Ex-President Hayes and party left for Fremont this afternoon. The ex-President and Mrs. Hayes remained during the forenoon at the house of her cousin, L. Austin, where a goodly number of citizens called upon them. Both were apparently in excellent health and spirits, and received all with the greatest cordiality. The ex-President does not hold the engineer of the train that ran into his train responsible for the accident, on the ground that he was a stranger to the road, and supposed if he was wanted to stop he could be flagged.

Relative to the funding bill, Mr. Hayes said that he was willing to try the experiment of refunding at so low a rate of interest, and that but for the fifth section of the bill it would have passed. He is reported, too, as saying that the tendency seems to be for a higher rate of interest, because much money will be needed to complete the many railroads now building and carry out other projects. He believes the funding scheme will be revived, but doubts whether it will become a law.

Relative to the new cabinet, the ex-President said: "I consider it a most admirable one. It is eminently a Garfield cabinet, and it's a good one; yes, sir, a good one. It is selected with proper regard for all sections, but what is far better, it is made with reference to ability and character of men."

As to Secretary Windom, the ex-President said: "I think Mr. Windom a sound, able, and competent man for the treasury. The ideas he may have entertained on the finances ten years ago were those entertained by very many able men, but Greenbackism is now a thing of the past."

ROBERT T. LINCOLN.

The "Telegram" Wants Him to Have Fair Play in Politics.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Telegram this evening says: "What has unhappy Mr. Robert Lincoln done that he should thus early, on the very threshold of his public career, be nominated for President and for Vice President on all hands by the newspapers. He has committed no offense deserving of such a penalty. He has not even committed himself. He has somewhat suddenly, to be sure, become a public man, but he is not to blame for that. He is entitled to all the benefits of his previous good character. He has lived all his life in Chicago, quietly, and modestly, and honorably attending to his profession, his business, and his domestic affairs. For a man to have lived quietly and modestly in the city of Chicago, argues a phase of character and a delicacy of soul, and a freedom from ambition, that entitle him to be spared from being made for four years the target for every species of political and partisan resentment. Let young Mr. Lincoln have fair play. Let his sines in public life have time to harden before he is called on to take and return the hard knocks. In three or four years he will be older than he is now. Let Garfield, Blaine, and the other old war captains now go into training for the battle of 1884. Let young Mr. Lincoln rest."

BOB IN THE EXTERIOR.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—To-day, in a conversation, Colonel Bob Ingersoll, referring approvingly to President Garfield's cabinet, said that while the high honors had been conferred upon the distinguished gentlemen now embraced in the list of the President's advisers, he was at the head of a vastly greater department, as Secretary of the Exterior, than he would be if he were to be the only drawback to his office was the precarious character of his salary.

THE BLOCKADE.

WHITEWATER, March 8.—Mail trains passed here last night for the first time in six days. No freight trains yet. The town is on the verge of suffering for fuel. There is every appearance of rain, which would be a great calamity, as the snow averages fully five feet deep.

GENERAL GRANT.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The Hon. John H. Starn, of New York, gave a dinner at Willard's this evening to General Grant, at which about forty gentlemen were present. Among them were Vice President Arthur and quite a number of Congressmen. No speeches were made. The dinner was eaten without ceremony, and was of the most elegant character. General Grant left early, and when he rose the company followed him as he left the room and gave him six rousing cheers. Everything considered, it was a most happy and successful affair. General Grant will return to New York on Thursday morning. He says he expects to leave there for Galveston on the 21st of this month. From Galveston he will sail for Vera Cruz on the steamer Whitney April 1. He will go to the city of Mexico on business connected with his railroad enterprise, remaining there but a short time. He will return to New York.

A PORTRAIT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—This morning Miss Frances E. Willard, on behalf of fifty ladies who subscribed to defray the cost of a memorial oil portrait of Mrs. Hayes, in honor of her determined stand for temperance, in a felicitous speech, presented it to President Garfield, who received it for the Nation in a few well-chosen words. Both speakers lauded Mrs. Hayes highly. Among those present besides the President and Mrs. Garfield and Miss Willard and the delegation of ladies accompanying her were the Rev. Dr. Luntanah, Senators Ferry, Blair, Ransom, Beck, Conger, and Logan, Representatives Bishop, Robinson of New York, Aldrich, of Illinois, Willits, Bremer, Vance, Briggs, Ray, and ex-representatives White and Sapp. The east room was well filled.

President Garfield most cordially received the picture, paying a beautiful tribute to its subject, whom he said, should ever be "at home" in the White House. He paid a graceful and fitting compliment to the address of Miss Willard, and expressed his hearty appreciation of their work and their prayers for and kind allusions to his mother, wife, and children. The company were then presented to the President and his wife. Miss Ransom, on behalf of the ladies, besought a meeting with President Garfield's mother, which was accorded, and she was soon ushered into the blue room, and received sincere evidence of the loving regard and esteem of the visiting ladies.

MILTON JUNCTION.

The funeral of Mrs. George Butts, whose death was noticed in last week's column, was postponed on account of the snow blockade, until next Sunday, the 13th inst., at the Methodist church, Milton. The funeral services were delayed till Saturday last on account of the severity of the storm and the utter impossibility of getting to the cemetery with teams.

Rev. O. U. Whitford and wife, of Walworth, and Mrs. Allen Butterfield, of Waukesha, are among the snow-bound attendants upon the late quarterly meeting.

No school in the lower department of the graded school last week, Miss Mount having gone home to Janesville and prevented from returning on account of the storm.

Prof. and Mrs. Henry Curtis, of Janesville, came down last week to be present at the funeral services of Mrs. Curtis' sister, the late Mrs. Butts.

Uncle Henry Crandall, and his daughter, Ada, of Edgerton, and Elder Simon Babcock, of Albion, were among the guests in town against their will on Monday and Tuesday.

Our citizens have shown a commendable promptitude in turning out voluntarily and assisting the supervisors and roadmasters in opening up the highways; and indeed it has been a time that called for public spiritness on the part of the masses, as the means at the disposal of the authorities were inadequate to the work without using up the entire road tax for the ensuing year, which would be a poor economy indeed. In relying, therefore, upon the voluntary enterprise and labor of the citizens, the supervisors feel that they have not been disappointed.

Mr. P. Hughes, who has for many years been section boss on the Northwestern road at this station, has taken a voluntary lay-off for some months, with a view of visiting his family in Minnesota, and his son, Edward, has been appointed in his place.

Assistant Superintendent Collins, of the St. Paul road, whose headquarters has been on an engine behind the snow plow with which he has stormed the numerous snowdrifts between Whitewater and Madison for several days past, has proved himself to be a field marshal worthy of the name. He has had an army of workers whom he has treated like men, while at the same time doing stalwart service for his road.

Mrs. F. W. Ellis and Mrs. Gilbert Thorpe were the last to obey the scriptural injunction to "increase and multiply the earth, and they are both girls and all are well.

The temperance meeting advertised for the new church for Wednesday evening last, was perforce of the storm declared adjourned sine die.

On Thursday, February 24th, in Janesville, Wis., Miss Mary L. Nelson, formerly of this place, was united in bonds matrimonial to Mr. L. Barr, of Rockford, Ill., since which time the newly wedded couple have been spending their snow bound honeymoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Joseph Mills, of Lima.

On Saturday night last, during the severe thunder storm that visited this section, two horses and one cow, belonging to Captain Chapman, who lives two miles south of the Janesville road, were struck by lightning and killed instantly. They were all in the barn surrounded by plenty of dry hay, but strange to say, it did not take fire. The barn was somewhat injured where it entered the roof.

Mrs. Henry Williams is still lying very low although her physicians give some encouragement of her being some better.

Mr. Austin Butts came down from Madison Monday.

Again it becomes our painful as it has been of late our oft repeated duty to chronicle the death of another of our citizens. Mr. Henry Kinkley, for many years past the express agent of this station. He died at his home in this village on Thursday, March 3d, at half past 5 o'clock, at the age of 53 years. Mr. Kinkley has been declining in health for some years past although able to attend to his duties up to a year previous to his death. His remains will be taken to Green Bay for interment.

Messages from the Sea.
A FEW instances of messages from the sea, reported from time to time to have been found, like Poe's manuscript, in a bottle, may perhaps be taken for what they are worth. A girl picked up in the sea near Barrow a securely corked bottle containing a scrap of old newspaper, on which was indistinctly written: "Gone down off the coast of Ireland, the steamer 'Combat', with all hands." Captain Yates." There was no mention of date on which the ship sank, but the writing appeared to have been hurriedly done. On the shore of the Bay of Luce a bottle was reported to have been found containing the following message, written in pencil on a piece of paper, the writing being much faded: "On the 29th of April, 1876, the ship 'Hercules' was wrecked on the extremity of Patagonia. Crew in the hands of savages. Bring us assistance." During a fearful winter storm it was conjectured from the large quantity of wreckage floating about, that many vessels had been lost at the mouth of the Tay in addition to those reported at the time. Some particulars reached the press--whether verified or not the writer is unable to say--that a letter inclosed in a bottle was cast ashore on the Lifeship coast giving a clue to one of these ships. The letter, blotted and otherwise damaged by seawater was written in bold Norwegian characters, and was thus translated: "Schooner Bay, Tonsberg, 25th December, eight morning. We are now in a sinking condition, within sight of the Bell Tock, outside the River Tay. We have had both boats smashed and carried away, and cannot therefore make an attempt to come ashore. We have experienced great hardships during the heavy gales in the North Sea. Greater part of our provisions, stores, and bulwarks are away. We have been laboring constantly at the pumps for three days, and the forecastle and cabin are full of water. Everything is destroyed, and we have but little to eat. We now put our trust in a merciful God, and if it is our fate to die, we hope to arrive at a heavenly throne. The crew is otherwise all well, and asked to be remembered to their dear ones at home. (Signed) H. Mathison, Captain of the schooner Bay." The letter bore the address: "To Tonsberg, Norway." The name of the Bay was on the Norwegian shipping-lists, and she would have a crew of seven or eight hands, and is supposed to have been bound, coal-laden, from the Tyne to Norway. This sad message from the sea was reported to the owners. Considering what has resulted from mariners' experiences with bottles afloat, and how often, after disasters at sea, these have been the means of communication between the living and dead, too much cannot be said in condemnation of thoughtless persons who perpetrate hoaxes of this description. -Chambers' Journal.

Mr. David Caruthers, of Montana, now in Washington Territory, writes from Spokane Falls concerning the discovery near that place of a lake the waters of which possess wonderful healing virtues. He boldly asserts that there is no disease of the skin that two or three baths will not cure, while in nervous troubles, rheumatism, paralysis and like ailments, the water has a beneficial effect almost immediately, and in a few weeks makes a new man of the patient. As yet no correct analysis of the water has been made, but almost any one can detect salt and borax in the taste. The lake is nearly round, being a mile and a half long and over a mile wide, and is sheltered on all sides by immense forests of pine and fir. The water is clear, of a dark color, and so buoyant that it will sustain the weight of a man without any exertion whatever. There is no animal life in the lake except a species of jelly-fish. Ordinary trout or other fish die immediately upon being placed in the water. The lake has no visible outlet, and although fed by several small streams it never increases or decreases its size. Almost anything can be cleaned in the lake much better than by the most powerful chemicals. Its wonderful medical properties came to be known some two years ago through an old paralytic sheep-raiser, who had driven his flock into the lake to give them the benefit of a good bath. A few days after he noticed that a number of his sheep were afflicted with the scab which was greatly improved. Then he began regularly to wash his animals. In a short time they were completely cured, and not only that, he found that his almost useless arm, which he could not prevent from getting wet as he bathed the sheep, was gaining new life and strength. Gratified beyond measure, he gave his whole attention to his arm, and in a very short time it was completely restored. The news of the wonderful cure spread rapidly around the country. Sick people began to arrive and camp on the shores of the lake. All who came were greatly benefited and a large majority entirely cured. -Helena (Montana) Herald.

A Refractory Bear.
A SWARTHY Italian led a bear along Newark Street, Hoboken, yesterday morning. The bear was growling and evidently loth to travel. The Italian tugged at the end of a stout rope attached to a ring in the bear's nose. When the bear pulled back the Italian tugged harder and tapped the animal on the head with a long pole. Occasionally the Italian tried petting the bear by stroking him gently and patting him. But the bear continued to growl and pull back until they reached Grove Street. There the bear stopped short, as if determined to go no further. The Italian tugged and coaxed in vain. The bear, cajoled, shook up the dust, reared his head high in the air, protruded his lip and roared. The Italian then got him into an open space and hit him a sharp rap with the pole. This brought matters to a crisis, and in a minute man and bear had clinched and were waiting around, to the mingled consternation and delight of a crowd of spectators. Some thought it was a real fight. Others said it was part of a performance, and that the Italian would soon pass around his hat. But it was a performance, the Italian took no pleasure in, for the bear lugged him hard, jerked him around until he fell, and then rolled on top of him. The Italian fought for his life and yelled for help.
A young butcher named Speer, who works in the slaughter-house near by, then took a hand in the fight. He seized the Italian's pole and dealt the bear a hard blow on the neck. Thereupon the bear let the Italian up, and the Italian managed to drag the animal to a telegraph pole, where he tied him, and sat down to rest. He spoke English imperfectly, but he managed to make the spectators understand that the bear did not belong to him. He said he had hired the bear from a man in New York who owns several bears, and lets them out by the day. He had tried to follow the man's instructions in the management of the animal, but found he could not get along as well as he expected. He believed the bear knew he was going away from home, and did not wish to go.
While the bear was tied to the telegraph pole the crowd around him grew in numbers. Policemen Murray and Dooley of the Hoboken force passed in citizens' clothes. Murray offered to shoot the bear, but the Italian vehemently protested that he did not want the animal shot. He said he would pay any one who would go to New York and bring the owner of the bear over to help him out of his difficulty. Finally a passing teamster was kind enough to volunteer to inform the bear's proprietor of the situation of affairs. After the expiration of two hours and a half the owner of the bear arrived on the ground. He scolded the man and talked volubly to the bear. Finally he told the man to take the bear home. The Italian approached the animal with trepidation, but did as he was bid, and, to the surprise of the spectators, the bear walked off with the utmost docility. Although somewhat fatigued by his struggle, the Italian suffered only a few scratches. -N. Y. Sun.

The Melancholy Dane.
Hamlet Prince of Denmark, would not have been dubbed the "Melancholy Dane" if he had known Dyspepsia was that ailment him, and that all he needed was a supply of Spring Blossom, a sure cure for Dyspepsia, Bilio-sness, Indigestion and other diseases of that description. Prices: $1.50 cents, and trial bottles 10 cents. Sold by A. J. Roberts, and Croft & Sherer.

Household Notes.
Ladies who do their own work will find a garnet ring quite becoming in the marked contrast made by its innumeration with the white dough of the morning biscuit. Diamonds are no longer considered in good taste, though they are occasionally used with good effect in mixing gingerbread.
Soap should be used sparingly on children's hands and faces. Much money is thrown away on soap that might be more profitably employed in buying bonbons and caramels. Even children are aware of this fact.
The anesthetic gloss on marble may be easily removed by setting glasses wet with lemonade upon the slab. Almost any acid will serve, but lemonade is the favorite agent.
A great many young housekeepers fall into the very natural error of thinking that boiled potatoes should be served with the core as natural. They preserve their form much better cooked that way, it is true, but the men folk have got into the incurable habit of eating potatoes boiled into a formless pulp.
In canning peaches, mothers should help their little boys help them peel the fruit. A great deal of labor is thus obviated. A mother informs us that the peaches she had supposed would fill six jars only made five. She had her little son's help in peeling, and therefore got through canning quicker than she had anticipated.
A great deal of sickness in children may be avoided by parents eating the green fruit on their place themselves. A united effort in a neighborhood is necessary to make this remedy effectual. Hens and children are prone to ramble. The only known way to make pickles keep is to lock them up in the store-closet and then throw away the key. Many other methods have been tried, but this is the only practical one.
It is the opinion of the best authorities that house sand should be used in polishing silverware, unless housekeepers desire a change in the matter of device borne on their plate. Then sand may be used with startling effect. Washing soda is a very poor substitute for bread soda. Those who have tried it say that it has but one thing to recommend it--that it makes the bread last much longer.
Rye is sometimes recommended as a substitute for coffee, but it should never be used in a liquid form.
While employed in picking over raisins, encourage your boy to whistle. This is the only time when it is permissible in good society. Girls may with propriety chew gum on this occasion.
Ladies who do their own washing should know that full dress while so employed is considered vulgar. Ear rings and finger rings may be allowed, but brooch and gold watch-chain never. Some very beautiful washing suits of blue and red satin with marabou trimmings are shown, and are meeting with high favor. -Boston Transcript.

—Charles Turner, the photographer, has hung out in front of his gallery a camera, which serves as a sign, and attracts attention of passers-by. It's unique and attractive.

—There is now unusual mortality among children. Yesterday Mr. Cannon's child, and Mr. L. L. Beers' child were buried, and this afternoon the funeral of James Haggart's child occurred.

—Mr. and Mrs. William Cannon thank their friends for the kindness and sympathy shown to them and family during the sickness and death of their infant son, and for flowers sent in at the funeral.

—Have you purchased your tickets for the Glee Club concert? "Yes, for the whole family, and my wife says, for we are going if we are obliged to go in boats." Concert next Monday evening.

—Postmaster Patterson has received official notice that a contract has been made with the Milwaukee and St. Paul road to carry the mail between here and Beloit on and after March 10. We will then probably have two mails a day each way.

—Despite the fact that the railroads are hiring all the men they can get, and that there is work everywhere to be done, two able bodied tramps appeared before Justice Nolan this morning, and were sentenced to jail for seven days each.

—Keene, the tragedian, who was to have been here last Thursday, but couldn't on account of snow, managed to get into St. Paul to-day. He was to have appeared there last Monday, but was balked by the snow just like any ordinary man.

—The Knights of Pythias have made an arrangement by which they are to use the Rifles' armory as a place of drilling, and propose to discipline themselves sufficiently in military movements as to be able to show up well, when appearing in public. The first drill is to be next Friday evening.

—Miss Cook, the artist, was tipped out of a cutter to-day near Orange Williams' house. The horse started and she was dragged a short distance in the snow, injuring her somewhat, but not seriously. The horse which belonged to Postmaster Patterson got a bad cut on one leg.

—Rev. J. L. Jones will deliver the third lecture of the M. I. C. course at their parlors on Friday evening of this week. Subject, "George Eliot." Mr. Jones has made a thorough study of this author, and her works, and the lecture will be of especial interest just at this time. He should have a large hearing.

—Dr. Thomas, of Chicago, who gained such notoriety by his supposed heresy, was in the city yesterday afternoon, having been at Evansville to lecture. He stopped at the Grand hotel, last night, and left to-day for Chicago. He was greeted here by several, who knew him, and last evening spent the hours in a quiet chat with Rev. Mr. Curtis.

—During the absence of the Police Justice, the business was cared for by Justice Wickham. Four tramps appeared before him, and he sentenced them as vagrants, and as such they were not sentenced to work. This "big four" chuckle to themselves most heartily when they see their fellows called out to work, leaving them to play cards and chat indoors.

—In front of Stearns & Baker's drug store stands a sign calling attention to "gutta percha paint." The snow has so covered up the sign that only the word "gutta" appeared in sight. A fellow the other day stood and gazed at that sign and that word for a long time, and then ventured to ask a bystander what the need was of having a sign to tell where the gutter was.

—Rev. H. M. Simmons, of Madison, last evening gave his lecture on "Dante" to about fifty eager listeners in the parlors of All Souls church. The gentleman has made a close study of his subject and gave a lecture which was certainly worthy of a larger hearing. He carefully analyzed the character of the great poet, and presented some valuable thoughts concerning his divine comedy.

—H. B. De Long has taken possession of the big warehouse, occupied by Mr. Atwater last year, and now has twenty-five hands employed in sorting and packing tobacco, and will increase the force as fast as farmers are able to bring in their tobacco. The prices, he is now paying, vary from seven to twelve cents, the most being ten cents. He is buying extensively now for Solomon & Bro., of New York. Some Chicago buyers are talking of coming here soon, also buyers from Pittsburgh, and the prospects are that more tobacco will be handled and shipped from here than last season.

—Forty-five years ago to-day she who is now Mrs. Volney Atwood, arrived in this city, reaching here about 9 o'clock in the evening. The party consisted of herself, three brothers, a sister and a sister-in-law, and they came by team from Ohio. They reached Beloit shortly before dark, and as they were in wagons and the snow was about eighteen inches deep, travelling was pretty hard. The men finally walked ahead driving the cattle, etc., thus beating down a road, and in this way they came into Janesville, and soon took shelter with the St. John family, the head of which was an uncle of the present Dr. St. John.

—Justice Brooks has plenty of business now. There are eleven cases of selling liquor without a license, which have been brought here from Edgerton for him to try. The first of the list is that against Wm. Clathworthy. A traveling man who secured whisky in bottles at various places is a prominent witness for the State. To one not conversant with the situation it looks strange enough to enter the room and see the District Attorney with a big bottle of whisky on the table beside him, as though to help him try the case. Attorney William Smith is for the defense, and there is a cloud of witnesses.

BIG SALE.

Calamus and Sister Sold by B. B. Eldredge to New York Parties.

It will surprise and sadden those who have taken such pride in the speedy Calamus to learn that her owner, B. B. Eldredge, of this city, has sold her, and her full sister Jannette, and that they are to be taken from here. The purchaser is Albert S. Odell, of New York city, and the speedy steeds will be shipped from here next Monday. Mr. Nelson accompanying them to Chicago, and Albert Mann going with them through to New York.

Mr. Eldredge has owned them for seven years, and it has been under his handling that they have developed into such flyers as to cause the name of Calamus at least to be known to the verge of every circle of turf lovers in the whole country.

Calamus is 15½ hands high, and will be nine years old this spring. She was sired by Swigert, her dam by Richards' Bellfounder, and granddam by a son of Richards' Bellfounder. She trotted several races in the season of 1879, securing a record of 2:32½. Her first appearance in 1880, was in Milwaukee in June, where from lack of condition she was distanced. She next appeared in Chicago, in July, and was drawn after trotting three heats. She then won second money in Cleveland, Parma being winner. At Rochester she started against Parma, and lapped her out in the third heat in 2:21½, and in the fourth heat in 2:21½. At Minneapolis she won her race in three heats, gaining her record of 2:24½. A week later she easily won her race in Chicago, in three heats. She then appeared in St. Louis, and from thence came home.

Although her record is 2:24½ she is much speedier than that. At Rochester last season she made 2:19½ and trotted one-quarter there which as timed by Mr. Emery, owner of Parma, proved to be in 33.4 seconds. During the entire season, in no heat did she ever make a break after getting the word, which certainly is a feather in the cap of her trainer and driver C. C. Nelson.

Jannette is a full sister, and has no record. She is full of promise, and big possibilities.

The price paid by Mr. Odell is kept a secret between the parties concerned, but it is pretty generally understood that it took $15,000 cash to buy the two, and that amount is without doubt very close to the real figures.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE AND EVENSON DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last night stood at 36 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m., to-day at 35 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 25 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 35 degrees above.

Clear.

The indications to-day are for the upper lake region, fair weather, stationary and lower temperature, generally higher barometer.

TRACKS IN THE SNOW.
The Chicago & Northwestern road is at last opened from here to Chicago. The big snow plow which has been eagerly looked for since Monday, arrived this morning, and was an object of interest. The plow itself is unique, resembling somewhat the prow of a steamship. It is weighted down with twenty tons of pig iron, and itself weighs fifteen tons. The engine is a ponderous one with three sets of driving wheels, and weighing about forty-five tons. The two make a giant pair, and plunge into a snowbank with the power of a monster. This big plow is at work between here and Milton, and this forenoon was about a quarter of a mile beyond the crossing. North of here the force working from Oshkosh is still near Chester.

Conductor Rich's train last night was delayed by one of the passenger trains near Palatine getting off the track. Three coaches and baggage car got off the rail, but no one was hurt, and no damage caused, but in consequence of the delay caused, Rich's train did not reach here until about 1 o'clock last night. The accommodation started out as usual this morning for Chicago.

On the Milwaukee and St. Paul road the track is all open now except about half a mile between here and Hanover. A train from Milwaukee bearing mail will reach Janesville at 6:50 o'clock this evening, and will start out for Monroe, taking mail for that direction. It is expected that the track will be cleared by that time, but if not, the train will go as far as where the work is being done, the Monroe train will come out to meet it, and the passengers and mail will be transferred.

Work is being done on the Beloit branch of the St. Paul road to-day, and it is expected that it will be opened to-morrow.

The Western Union will also be opened up by to-morrow.

In fact all trains on the Milwaukee & St. Paul road will leave and arrive here as usual to-morrow, except the Beloit train.

Slightly Exhilarated.

"RE-FOL-DE-RIDDLE! How well I feel!" Chirped an elderly bachelor to-day morning. "That Thomas' Electric Oil seems to have cured my lumbago completely. I feel as if I were young again and believe I'll ask the widow to have me." He did so, was accepted and is now the happy parent of a fine boy.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

A young man named Will Laramy, an adopted son of T. W. Laramy, of Beloit, has created a flurry there by the alleged forgery of his father's name to a draft of $107. He first presented it at the First National Bank, but the officers refused payment as they saw it was not Mr. Laramy's handwriting. The young man then explained by saying that his father was sick in bed, and he had "helped him write it." Taking the draft he went to the Manufacturer's bank and there secured the money. A few days later the bank received a telegram from Kansas City signed T. W. Laramy, calling for a remittance in currency. As Mr. Laramy was at home he was notified, and also told about the draft, and at once declared both to be forged. The bank officials have telegraphed to Kansas City to have the young man arrested.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.

There is to be a temperance meeting at the new church at Milton Junction next Monday evening, which every one interested in the cold-water cause in that vicinity is earnestly requested to attend, as it will be of special interest.

Viva Garibaldi!

When Garibaldi seized his high command, And sheathed his sword, that sword a bright and keen one, Nought in his pocket but he but his hand, A mighty hand, and nobler still a clean one, When sick with blood impure, boils and pimples do infest, Spring Blossom use at once, the cheapest cure and best.

Prices: $1, 50c, and trial bottles 10c. For sale by A. J. Roberts and Croft & Sherer.

RULES FOR LENT.

It is a matter of interest, not merely to those inside of the churches, but to many outside of the churches, to know the regulations which are supposed to govern the faithful during the Lenten season.

The following are those issued by Archbishop Heiss, of Milwaukee, for the guidance of those of the Catholic faith:

All days of Lent, Sundays excepted, are fasting days of obligation, on which but one full meal is allowed.

The use of flesh meat is allowed, by dispensation, at the principal meal only, on all days, except Wednesdays and Fridays, and also Saturday of the second or Ember week, and the last four days of Lent.

The use of eggs, butter, milk and cheese, is allowed throughout Lent, and also the use of lard instead of butter, for cooking, though on Good Friday, lard and eggs are forbidden.

Fish and flesh meat are not permitted to be used at the same meal.

A collation or repast may be taken in the evening, but it ought not to exceed a fourth part of an ordinary meal, and a cup of coffee or tea, mixed with a little milk, may be taken with a small slice of bread by those who need it, in the morning.

Besides Lent, therefore, during year the following are days of fast and abstinence: Wednesday, Friday and Saturday in every Ember week.

The Vigils of Pentecost, of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin, of All-Saints day, and of Christmas, likewise the Fridays in Advent.

All Fridays during the year are days of abstinence from flesh meat; on Saturday the use of flesh meat is allowed again for this year by Apostolical dispensation, except in case that a fast day falls on Saturday.

All must consider themselves strictly bound to this fast; those only are exempt from fasting (though not from abstinence) who are under the age of twenty-one, and such persons as are sick, infirm, convalescent, or otherwise of a delicate constitution, and whose strength is impaired by old age, nursing, or by hard labor. Such as are seriously sick are also exempt from abstinence.

Those who entertain any reasonable doubt about their obligation to fast or abstain ought to have recourse to their respective pastors for advice or dispensation.
